HARLAN SCHOOL GIRL WINS $4000 PRIZE BY ESSAY

Dorothy Louise Roberts, former L. M. U. student, daughter of Harlan Pastor, winner in nationwide contest.

PRIZE GIVEN YEARLY BY U. S. HIGHWAY EDUCATION BOARD

Associated Press

HARLAN, Nov. 10.—Miss Dorothy Louise Roberts, 17, Harlan, Ky., school girl, was awarded the Harvey S. Firestone scholarship, carrying a cash value of $4,000, in the nation-wide essay contest conducted by the United States Highway Education Board, according to an announcement made today by Wellington Patrick, director of extension at the University of Kentucky. The essay consisted of 700 words on "The Influence of Highway Transport on the Religious Life of My Community."

School children of Harlan, numbering 1,600, were given a half holiday Thursday and staged a parade, half a mile long, through the streets in celebration of the winning of Miss Dorothy Roberts, pupil at the Harlan high school of the Firestone university scholarship offered annually by the Highway Education Board a quasi-government organization at Washington, D. C., of which Dr. John Tigar, commissioner of education is chairman. The scholarship consists of payment of all fees, for a period of four years in any college or university in the country selected by the winner. The winner receives $1,000 annually.

It is quite significant that this scholarship should be won by a Kentucky contestant living in the heart of Kentucky's great mountain section, Mr. Patrick said in commenting upon the award. All high schools in the United States were eligible to compete and a nationally known board judged the winning selections from each state.

MISS ROBERTS
GRADUATED FROM HARLAN HIGH SCHOOL IN JUNE, 1923.

She was born in Cooperstown, N. Y., near the very spot where James Fenimore Cooper wrote his "Leatherstocking Tales." She was editor of the Harlan high school paper and wrote the class poem. Miss Roberts is the daughter of Dr. Thomas B. Roberts, pastor of the Methodist church of Harlan. While her father was pastor in Lexington, Miss Roberts attended Lexington junior high school and Savoy College. She also spent one summer at Lincoln Memorial University. Miss Roberts is an excellent swimmer, a good horseback rider, a fair tennis player, and, according to her father, "a little too fond of dancing."

Several hundred thousand contestants participated in the essay-writing according to Mr. Patrick. The Kentucky papers were received by the department of university extension and marked by Prof. L. L. Dantzler, head of the department of English at the University of Kentucky.

GUILTY OF KILLING MAN IN CHURCH

Court of Appeals Affirms Life Sentence for Harlan County Man

By Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, Nov. 10.—M. Vaughn must serve a life sentence on charge of killing Robert Ryder and the Court of Appeals today affirmed the judgment of Harlan Circuit Court to that effect. Ryder was killed in September a year ago at a religious service at Glendale. Vaughn pleaded insanity. He sat through the church service and as the last song began he advanced to the front of the church and shot Ryder six times, killing him instantly. At his trial Vaughn charged his wife and Ryder with improper relations. Opinion today held the killing was "wilful murder."

Fruit trees costing over $1,500 were distributed in Middlesboro yesterday by E. P. Bales, representing a Rose Hill Nursery. Nearly all the ordinary varieties of fruit are included in the lot; also a few evergreen trees. The shipment which arrived here Thursday covered the greater part of a vacant lot on Nineteenth street when it was unpacked.

Mr. Bales says he is doing a big business at Rose Hill and selling thousands of trees in this vicinity. This is the proper time of the year to set out fruit trees, he stated.

FOUR HURT WHEN CAR TURNS OVER

Mrs. J. R. Haslitt's Automobile thrown From Road When Other Tries to Pass

Four persons were injured on the Pineville road near Blingshantown late yesterday afternoon when the car of Mrs. J. R. Haslitt was thrown from the road and turned over by an automobile driven by Fayne Coleman.

Mrs. Haslitt, L. E. DeBusek, Miss Edna Sprules and Mrs. Haslitt's small child were all injured. Mrs. Haslitt was considerably bruised and suffered a severe nervous shock from the accident. Mr. DeBusek was injured about the shoulder, arms and legs. Miss Sprules suffered painful cuts and the child was slightly hurt.

Mr. DeBusek stated that the car in which he was riding, driven by Mrs. Haslitt, was going about 15 miles per hour. Fayne Coleman, driving in the same direction, passed Mrs. Haslitt's car and, in doing so, the rear of it became hooked under the fender, and threw Mrs. Haslitt's car from the road and turned it upside down. Both cars were going in the direction of Pineville.

TRIBUTE TO WILSON FOR ARMISTICE DAY

Great Demonstration Planned for Former President Saturday and Sunday

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Friends of Woodrow Wilson are planning to make Armistice Day a tribute to him, the greatest demonstration in his honor, or that has ever taken place since he became ill. Not only the former President's address, "Significance of Armistice Day," he distributed by radio throughout the country on Saturday evening, but delegations from several cities and representing a number of organizations are expected to take part in a pilgrimage to his home here. The Wilson resident will be preceded by a parade through the residential section with a band at its head and followed by disabled veterans of the World War. Wilson is expected to speak briefly from the front steps of his house in reply.

DIAMOND JUBILEE OF KENTUCKY FEMALE ORPHAN SCHOOL

The Kentucky Female Orphan school will celebrate its Diamond Jubilee or 75 anniversary sometime in 1924.

The main feature of this celebration will be the Home Coming for the old students. We therefore ask each old student who reads this notice to immediately send her name and address with as many names and addresses of other former students as possible. In this way if each member of the alumnae will lend her aid we shall obtain a very complete list of names and addresses of our former students.

If any other friends reading this can help us by sending in name and address or a number of names and addresses of former students of this school, the assistance will be greatly appreciated.

Please send in names at once as we wish to begin planning now for the great Home Coming which will take place near the date of commencement.

Address all communications to Mrs. Ella Johnson Mountjoy, Principal of orphan school, Midway, Ky.

ERECT MEMORIAL TO HONOR GALBRAITH, DEAD AMERICAN LEGION COMMANDER

This memorial to Colonel Frederick Galbraith Jr., former national commander of the American Legion, will be unveiled in Cincinnati, November 10, as the principal event in that city's observance of Armistice Day.

Cabinet members and representatives from the allied embassies and legations are expected to be present, together with Ohio World War veterans, many of whom served under Galbraith.

Col. Galbraith, elected to the Legion commandership at the Legion convention in September, 1920, was killed in an automobile accident June 9, 1921. He received the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in France. He also was awarded the French and Belgian Croix de Guerre and the French Legion d'Honneur.

Commander Quinn of American Legion Eulogizes Late Leader at Cincinnati Today

Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Nov. 10.—Frederick W. Galbraith, late commander of the American Legion, who was killed in an automobile accident at Indianapolis several years ago, was held to be a martyr to patriotic service by John Quinn, present national commander of the soldier-sailor organization, in an address here today. The speech was made at the dedication exercises of the Galbraith memorial.

"Galbraith's later life was dedicated to legion principles," Commander Quinn said. "He would probably have said that legionism is one form of unselfishness. He would have been right. He would have said that legionism demanded hospitalization for our disabled comrades. He would have said that it demanded adjusted compensation for the millions whose economic disability has not yet been set right. He would have said that legionism demanded a keener appreciation of our patriotic rights and was announced today that a visit to the Wilson residence will be preceded

To the American Legion is the charge that the needs and wants of the maimed and disabled ever shall be cared for, the speaker declared, adding that the former service men's strength and power must be used to provide for their welfare and happiness, and to expose without pity, any unfairness or exploitation of these maimed."

"You remember that memorable ceremon when America's valiant son

Frederick W. Galbraith—inspired the nation in the greatest spontaneous outburst of patriotism since the war,"

Commander Quinn continued. "You remember how the agents of our enemies were inciting propaganda had sought to wean us from our allies. And so do you remember how Galbraith led in the stimulation of our patriotic act as that spirit of Americanism takes its beginning in the schools—and the Legion plans patriotic education. It takes its places in the homes—and the Legion hopes to carry an inspirational message to every fireside in America that patriotism may be better fostered than it is in the pulpit. In the business world, in the obligation of national life—so the Legion is ever ready to spread its broad gospel of better homes, stronger love of nation despite art deeper regard for law into life and of every inhabitant of America to make all American citizens not merely residents of a country.

ARMISTICE DAY TO BE OBSERVED HERE

Local Ministers to Have Special Services Tomorrow—Woman's Club Plans Program

FORT WAYNE, Nov. 10.—Addressing an Armistice Day celebration of members of the Ku Klux Klan of Illinois, Ohio, Michigan and Indiana here today, Dr. H. W. Evans, imperial wizard of Atlanta, pleaded that the day be made an "anniversary both of the burial and resurrection of the spirit of war and the birthplace of peace."

Coming as it does on Sunday this year, the holiday will not mean any interruption in business with the exception of its internal problems. Despite the fact that the world war waged "to end war" the speaker said, the world is still an armistice camp. There is no fighting because as a whole people are too exhausted to fight. He added there is no sign of permanent peace.

The Middlesboro Woman's Club is preparing an Armistice Day program for Tuesday. A large number of people from Middlesboro are expected to attend the Armistice Day services at L. M. U. which will begin tomorrow and extend through Monday.

A THOUGHT

All flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth, and the flower therefore falleth away.—1 Pet. 1:24.

We make provision for this life as if it were never to have an end, and for the other life as though it were never to have a beginning.—Adison.

ARMISTICE DAY
MESSAGE
(By John R. Quinn)

Five years ago the war ended—officially. However, it has not really ended, nor can it end until the principles for which our soldiers fought have been fulfilled to the utmost.

It is fitting that on this day we should re-dedicate ourselves to "carrying on" by solemn declaration within our own conscience. To do your part today in this re-pledging to principle, pause for a moment and recall the principles for which our men went willingly to the chance of death—many to die.

You remember the phrase on their lips and in their hearts: "a war to end war." Yet wars are not ended. They went beyond the seas into a bell of death and destruction that their sons and daughters and the sons and daughters of their brothers might be spared a like horror in time to come. Yet today there is no guarantee, no certainty that another war will not be forced upon this nation, or any nation, at some future time.

The American Legion pledged itself at its last annual convention to strive unceasingly for peace. This does not mean that we have joined the ranks of those so-called pacifists of war-time memory. Far from it. As long as conditions may make war necessary to protect our nation from aggression or oppression, we stand ready, nay, anxious, to answer the call to arms. But we strive toward an era when our nation and all nations may live and fulfill their destinies without injustice, oppression or the necessity to protect themselves from such by force.

The American Legion pledged itself to no one plan to end war. Neither does it ask that you do so. It is a question upon which opinions differ: each must act according to his belief.

But we do not ask that you, upon this Armistice Day, take solemn resolve that you will leave no act undone or word unsaid that may advance even in the smallest degree, the era of perpetual peace. You may not have the opportunity of speaking from a platform, but this does not excuse you. If you have one neighbor, one friend, whom you can convert to the cause of peace and fail to do so, then you have not kept faith with those who sleep in Flanders Fields."

There is an organization, international, of fighting men of the allied armies. This organization has declared that, once brothers in arms, they are today brothers in peace. Nearly every nation which stood side by side in the World War is represented. There is a nucleus. But the nucleus is not sufficient in itself. It requires the active help of world opinion. When the demand for perpetual peace is made the business, the most urgent demand of every man, woman and child, then will lasting peace come.

I ask that now you solemnly enlist in this greatest cause of all time, the ending of war. Thus, and thus only, can you keep faith with those who kept faith with you in the time of your greatest need.

COLORADO'S ASSET

It is estimated that 650,000 individuals visited Colorado the past season and that these persons left $45,500,000 within the state. There was a total registration at tourists' centers of 4,500,000, but elimination of presumed implications reduces the figures to those first given. Scenery and climate are the two resources which attract visitors. It is a summer state pecularly.

The people of Colorado did not produce the magnets which draw from afar, but they have capitalized what nature provided and they are making it pay. Neither are the would-be tourists expected to discover for themselves what Colorado has to show them. The attractions are advertised widely and free information bureaus are at the service of all who care to inquire. In addition 247 automobile traps were maintained during the tourist season.

Colorado has some fine farming land where it is possible to irrigate it, she has some good mines and a variety of industries, but she has more mountains and canyons than any other one thing. Utilizing these she has developed a great business. More money was received from tourists than is paid in taxes by all the people of the state. A lot of precipitous, rocky and lofty mountain peaks rear a dead loss to any state, and they would be for the purposes which make most of the commonwealths populous, but Colorado has turned them into an asset.

She lived on the edge of the ocean in Dixie Land with six of her children and had a pretty good time fishing and feeding her family and seeing that they all grew up into good smart little pelicans.

So now you know all about her. Nancy and Nick happened along when she was giving her son, Pouché Pelican, a lesson to fishing, so they sat down on a rock to watch and listen.

"Do it this way, Pouché," said Miss Pelican.

"I'm sorry I'm not good at this," said Nick.

"Why you just eat it then and there," she answered. "You don't mean to tell me you let a perfectly good dinner get away."

"Well," the Twins heard Pouché say thoughtfully, "somebody's dinner got away. But I think it was the fish's."

"All right, Mammy," said Pouché, waddling off to the edge of the water and floating away as lightly as fought.

Chocolate Cake

Who can resist a home-made chocolate cake? Served alone or with ice cream or canned fruit it adds the finishing touch to almost any sort of house dinner.

A dark cake keeps moist longer than a white one and is good to the last crumb. If half butter and half lard are used the cake will be fluffier and more moist than if all butter is used. This recipe calls for the yolks of the eggs. The whites are used for the frosting. The cake can be baked in a dripping pan, covered with boiled icing and spread with melted chocolate. The chocolate forms a hard crust over the icing which tends to keep it soft.

Chocolate Cake

Two squares bitter chocolate, 1 cup milk, 1/2 cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon vanilla, few grains salt, yolks of 2 eggs. Melt chocolate over hot water. Add one-half cup milk and cook until a smooth paste is formed. Cream butter (or butter and lard mixed) and beat in sugar. Add cooked mixture. Beat egg yolks with remaining half cup of milk and add alternately with flour. Mix well and add soda dissolved in a little hot water. Add vanilla and salt and beat well. Bake in two layers or in a dripping pan.

Fudge Cake

Two cups light brown sugar, 2-3 cup butter and lard mixed and melted, cake melted chocolate, 2 eggs, 1 cup boiling water, 1 teaspoon vanilla, few grains salt, 1/2 teaspoon soda.

Cream shortening and sugar. Melt chocolate over hot water and add to mixture. Add eggs (unbeaten) and beat well. Stir in sour milk. Add flour sifted after measuring. Beat until smooth. Add boiling water and beat smooth. Add vanilla, salt and soda dissolved in a little cold water. Pour into two square pans and bake half an hour in a moderate oven. Put together with fudge.

One-fourth cake, two squares of chocolate can be used.

Fudge

Two cups granulated sugar, 1 cup milk, 2 or 3 squares of bitter chocolate, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Put sugar and milk in a smooth sauce pan. Put over the fire and do not stir until mixture begins to boil. Add chocolate and stir constantly until soft ball stage is reached. Add butter and cook one minute longer. Remove from the fire and let cool. When cool add vanilla and stir until creamy. Spread on cake.

Sour Cream Chocolate Cake

Two cups brown sugar, 1/2 cup butter, 3 eggs, 1 cup sour cream, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 cup grated chocolate.

MOTHER'S DEATH REVEALS SIX-YEAR SECRET OF WISCONSIN DRAFT EVADER

STRATFORD, Wis., Nov. 10.—Millions of tragedies had settings in the great war.

But there's probably none so strange as the "secret of the Schweighofers."

After six years, it has just been revealed in this quiet little Wisconsin town.

It isn't the story of sacrifice upon the battlefields, for virtually all the action is centered on a small truck farm just outside Stratford.

German Born

It's the story of mother—~~boy~~! And one that chronicles privations and mental strain perhaps equally as great as any soldier suffered in the trenches—a plot ending only with the mother's death and the voluntary surrender of her draft-evasive son.

Death—and death alone—broke the secret of the Schweighofers.

Fred had come over from Dusseldorf, in Germany, in early childhood, with his mother and sister. For four years his Mrs. Schweighofter worked in a Milwaukee hotel. Then the family moved to Stratford and settled on the tiny patch of land where the Schweighofter home stands today.

Leaves Mysterious

Year in and year out Fred plowed the fields, tended the stock and did the chores.

Then came the war. Fred registered for the draft. But his mother pleaded with him to remain with her.

One night Stratford received a shock. Fred Schweighofter had disappeared mysteriously. He had gone west to job in a railroad camp. The searchers, however, didn't know that then.

Steals Home

Six weeks and the excitement had subsidized. In the dead of night, Fred sneaked back into town.

Yet for six years Stratford knew nothing of his return. He always worked the farm from sun up to sun down.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE—By Ahern

MR. HOOPLES TIPS OFF "WILDCAT" WARNER TO THE MAJOR

But as dusk was gathering, Fred, dressed in his mother's clothes, would steal out into the night.

Mother Stricken

And all the while the neighbors pitied the "aged woman" toiling alone here in the fields.

Came the day when Mrs. Schweighofter fell ill. As the doctor's car turned down the lane, Fred sought refuge in an upstairs room. He didn't emerge from his hiding until his mother died.

Neighbors were astonished to see him again. Going to Marshfield, he exchanged his overalls for a new wardrobe.

Waits for Summons

After the funeral he surrendered himself upon the advice of local business men. For five days he was in jail at Marshfield. Then the authorities released him and sent him back to Stratford.

Under government surveillance he's back in the fields again. Perhaps Uncle Sam will prosecute him some day.

Maybe he won't for Fred's far from a well man now. The strain of those six years has told on him.

WANTED—A SON FOR A WEEK

WALTER W. HEAD

OMAHA, Nov. 10.—Walter W. Head thinks a father should be to his son: A mentor, a companion, an adviser, an ideal, a confidant, with whom the boy can share his joys and sorrows. And dad's life, says Head, ought to be an example of a life consecrated to Christian service.

Walter W. Head has to "borrow" a son.

Otherwise, the chairman of the national committee for "Father and Son Week" won't even get a look-in on the big doings.

For every man, who attends any of next week's parties, must bring along his son, or somebody else's son.

But Head ought to be able to negotiate the loan. Not having a boy himself, he already has "adopted" practically every lad in Omaha, especially the kids of the streets.

Own Climb Hard

Like Judge Roy Lindsay of Denver, he is known the length and breadth of the land as a friend of the boys.

His own boyhood struggles left with in his heart a great desire to be a big brother to the "men of tomorrow." Scouting, Sunday school and Y. M. C. A. activities have monopolized the major portion of his leisure for a number of years.

Every Sunday morning, he teaches a Bible class of sixty active boys. He was president of the Omaha Boy Scout Council until he became such a national figure in scouting that he couldn't manage both his national and local duties.

Followed Plow

Last July, he went to Paris as chair man of the American delegation at the international conference on scouting.

And he's a member of the "Y's" international council, besides.

His own life story catches boyish imagination, for it reads just like Horatio Alger's "The Farmer Boy Who Became Bank President."

In his early teens, he followed a plow, behind stubborn Missouri mule. Then he became a teacher. He quit the classroom a short while later to take a job in a bank of $30 a month.

Today, at 42, he is president of the American Banking Association.

It's no wonder he appeals to boys. And, in view of his own hard climb, it's no wonder the boys appeal to him.

"When I was working my own way up," he says, "I made up my mind that if I ever had a chance to give the boys a life, I would do it."

And he has kept his word.

The Buffalo herds on the United States game preserves have been increased this season by the birth of 118 calves.

Your Health

Healthy Lungs

Healthy lungs simply mean lungs that are unimpaired by disease germs and respond to the free elastic movements of the chest, ribs, intercostal muscles and the diaphragm in the process of breathing.

Strictly speaking, there are no healthy lungs. All are more or less impaired, through invading dust, inhaling smoke and disease during childhood. Germs and microbes of many kinds gain entrance to the lungs by mouth breathing.

The bronchi and trachea have hair-like processes on the mucous membranes of their walls which do their best to expel minute foreign bodies and microbes from entering the lungs. But in spite of all efforts, these germs do get in and cause such diseases as influenza, bronchitis, pneumonia and tuberculosis.

The lungs in a pure healthy condition are a pearly white. Eskimos have the neatest approach to such lungs. The lungs of the city dweller are gray. The miner's lungs are much darker, sometimes nearly approaching black.

This does not mean that almost everybody has diseased lungs. The great majority are in fairly good condition, due particularly to the fact that the lungs are great in recuperative powers. In fact, they are almost as good in this respect as the overused and much abused heart.

To help your lungs in the fight against germs and disease you must at all times carefully observe the correct rules of respiratory health. The chest will not work in first-class condition if bent out of shape and restricted through improper posture, in its muscular movements. By keeping up blood circulation. Well-developed, well-coordinated, with good breathing exercises you can add your lungs to healthy old age.

Remember that the lungs are a great aid to the heart in keeping up a good

PRESBYTERIAN MEN HAVE ENJOYABLE DINNER LAST NIGHT

The banquet of the new Presbyterian organization, the Men of the Church, held last night in the church dining room, was very well-attended and equally well enjoyed by those present. The dinner was served by the women of the church under the direction of Mrs. W. K. Evans.

C. A. Blackburn, president of the organization, was toastmaster for the banquet and Warren P. Rash, leader of the fellowship group, was chairman. Several songs were sung, Mrs. J. P. ### SALVATION ARMY REVIVAL MEETING STARTS TOMORROW

CAPTAIN AND MRS. F. J. STEINHOUR

A revival meeting will start at the Salvation Army hall tomorrow and services will be held there each evening at 7:30 o'clock, conducted by Capt. and Mrs. F. J. Steinhour. "Good old time gospel preaching in the old time way, good singing, good preaching and a good time," is promised and all are invited.

Spirit in witnessing for Christ, true nations shall be born in a day. That which shall be manifested by Israel for their God-appointed task is needed by the church in her witnessing. She needs the Spirit of God to fit her to preach the gospel to the heathen.

2. The Conversion of the Heathen (vv. 3-5). Thanksgiving will be given for salvation offered and accepted. Not only this, but there will be rejoicing in the experience of salvation. They will rejoice in the fact now that the great and righteous God rules the earth. The new-born soul rejoices in knowing that a dispensation of justice tempered with mercy has been ushered in. What gladness will be in the hearts of men in the day when Christ reigns!

3. Restoration of Blessings Upon the Earth (vv. 6-7). When man cast off God a curse was placed upon the earth which limited its fruitfulness. Immediately upon man's return to God this curse will pass away from the earth. The supreme obstacle to prosperity is man's rebellion against God. Let the nations return to God and He will send His blessing upon them. The only way to bring back peace and prosperity is by the preaching of the gospel. Man must be called back to God. The supreme need of the world is not a league of nations, but a return to God, because God will remain separate from the nations as long as they are in rebellion against Him.

III. A Call to Recognize the Goodness of God (Ps. 100).

Praise should go up to God because He is God. Being God He created us, sustains us and saves us. For His unending mercy and goodness praise should be continually ascribed to Him.

What Life Consists Of.

"A man's life consists not in the abundance of things which he possesses." In these words Jesus strikes at the popular error of all ages—the better that it consists in things. For nothing are we under deeper obligation to Christianity than for this, that it corrects our easy views of life. Since the first man started heavenward, there have been two conflicting ideals of life; one teaches that life's values are in the things we get and keep, the other holds that the chief end of man is to develop his highest powers, to live in fear of that which is beneath him, and in reverence for that which is above him. Rev. C. C. Albertson, D. D.
